Marine Reptile Conference

Tuesday 5th – Thursday 7th May 2020

The Etches Collection: Museum of Jurassic Marine Life, Dorset, UK

This meeting will consist of two days of oral presentations, discussions, and posters. The primary focus will be the fossil record, covering marine reptiles as well as organisms which formed part of their ecosystems. However, a session will also take place on modern marine reptiles, and abstracts from researchers studying all aspects of this field are welcome.

To compliment the meeting, there will be an optional conference dinner in the evening on the first day, and an optional field trip on the third day.
